Not Psychotherapy

After The Honeymoon programs are not psychotherapy. While Jim and Felicia are licensed psychotherapists and certainly bring their experience to bear within these classes, the format is based upon learning new skills, developing new capacities and creating positive experiences to build upon.

Confidentiality

Your contact information, as well as all personal information that is disclosed through the course of your participation in After The Honeymoon programs is completely confidential. We do not sell contact information and will only contact you with information about our programs. If you do not wish to receive future mailings from us, you can let us know and we will remove you from our list.

We are happy to have a conversation with your therapist before and/or after a retreat. If you are interested in this sign a release of information with your therapist and have him or her contact us.
